

Delta Medical Systems Notifies Individuals of Data Security Incident

BROOKFIELD, WI– Delta Medical Systems (“Delta Medical”) is providing notice of a recent data security incident that may have involved personal and/or protected health information. At Delta Medical, we take the privacy and security of all information within our possession very seriously. Delta Medical is providing notice to all individuals whose information could have been involved.

On July 15, 2025, we identified unusual activity within our email environment. We immediately took steps to ensure its environment was secure. We also initiated an investigation, aided by independent cybersecurity experts, to determine what happened and whether sensitive information may have been affected. This forensic investigation determined that certain data may have been accessed or acquired without authorization in connection with this incident on July 15, 2025. We conducted an extensive review of the affected data to determine whether any individuals’ personal and/or protected health information may have been involved. On March 6, 2026, we mailed letters by United States First Class mail to all individuals with an available mailing address whose information could have been involved and provided resources to assist them.

Based on our review of the data set, the following information may have been involved as a result of the incident: name, Social Security number, date of birth, driver's license number, bank account and/or routing number, medical information, and/or health insurance information.

As soon as we discovered this incident, we took the steps described above and implemented measures to enhance security and minimize the risk of a similar incident occurring in the future. We have established the following toll-free line to answer questions about the incident and address related concerns: 1-833-289-1931.

Delta Medical is providing the following information to help those wanting to know more about steps they can take to protect themselves and their information:

What steps can I take to protect my information?

Review Your Account Statements and Notify Law Enforcement of Suspicious Activity: As a precautionary measure, we recommend that you remain vigilant by reviewing your account statements and credit reports closely. If you detect any suspicious activity on an account, you should promptly notify the financial institution or company with which the account is maintained. You also should promptly report any fraudulent activity or any suspected incidence of identity theft to proper law enforcement authorities, your state attorney general, and/or the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

Copy of Credit Report: You may obtain a free copy of your credit report from each of the three major credit reporting agencies once every 12 months by visiting <http://www.annualcreditreport.com/>, calling toll-free 1-877-322-8228, or by completing an Annual Credit Report Request Form and mailing it to Annual Credit Report Request Service, P.O. Box 105281, Atlanta, GA 30348. You also can contact one of the following three national credit reporting agencies:

- Equifax, P.O. Box 105851, Atlanta, GA 30348, 1-800-525-6285, www.equifax.com.
- Experian, P.O. Box 9532, Allen, TX 75013, 1-888-397-3742, www.experian.com.
- TransUnion, P.O. Box 2000, Chester, PA 19016, 1-800-916-8800, www.transunion.com.

Fraud Alert: You may want to consider placing a fraud alert on your credit report. An initial fraud alert is free and will stay on your credit file for at least one year. The alert informs creditors of possible fraudulent activity within your report and requests that the creditor contact you prior to establishing any accounts in your name. To place a fraud alert on your credit report, contact any of the three credit reporting agencies identified above. Additional information is available at <http://www.annualcreditreport.com>.

Security Freeze: You have the right to put a security freeze on your credit file at no cost. This will prevent new credit from being opened in your name without the use of a PIN number that is issued to you when you initiate the freeze. A security freeze is designed to prevent potential creditors from accessing your credit report without your consent. As a result, using a security freeze may interfere with or delay your ability to obtain credit. You must separately place a security freeze on your credit file with each credit reporting agency. In order to place a security freeze, you may be required to provide the consumer reporting agency with information that identifies you including your full name, Social Security number, date of birth, current and previous addresses, a copy of your state-issued identification card, and a recent utility bill, bank statement or insurance statement.

Additional Free Resources: You can obtain information from the consumer reporting agencies, the FTC, or from your respective state Attorney General about fraud alerts, security freezes, and steps you can take toward preventing identity theft. You may report suspected identity theft to local law enforcement, including to the FTC or to the Attorney General in your state.

You also have certain rights under the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA): These rights include to know what is in your file; to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information; to have consumer reporting agencies correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information; as well as other rights. For more information about the FCRA, and your rights pursuant to the FCRA, please visit <https://www.consumer.ftc.gov/articles/pdf-0096-fair-credit-reportingact.pdf>.
